PADI IDC

Become a PADI Diving Instructor with Leading PADI Course Director Mark Slingo

Embrace a life of awesomeness!

Is it time for your PADI Instructor Development Course (PADI IDC) in Kenya?

The PADI IDC which is being taught to the 2019 updated curriculum incorporating PADI Touch eLearning is with Award-Winning PADI Course Director Mark Slingo. When it comes to scuba diving coral reefs,, Kenya is up there with the best of them.

Ocean Tribe's dive base in Diani Beach is located on one of the world's top 10 rated beaches and consistently rated the best in Africa. The palm tree-lined white powder sands run down to azure waters where the fringing coral reefs can be found only 100m offshore.

The Ocean Tribe PADI Instructor Development Course incorporates the Assistant Instructor Course and the Open Water Scuba Instructor Course. The whole program takes place over 7-10 days, followed by a 2-day instructor exam, conducted by an incoming PADI Instructor Examiner.

PADI eLearning

Prior to your PADI IDC you will complete the PADI IDC eLearning presentations on a tablet or laptop. This will also include a studying your PADI Guide to Teaching (also available in the PADI Training App) and your dive theory from the PADI Divemaster Course, PADI Rescue Diver Course, Advanced Open Water Course and Open Water course. You will also take the time to become more familiar with your PADI Instructor Manual.

What Happens On The PADI IDC?

During the PADI IDC, you will take part in a number of workshops to learn the art of teaching students and setting up your teaching scenarios for safety and accomplishing the skills. You will take part in workshops with our PADI Course Director Mark and PADI IDC Staff Instructors, about the skills of teaching, marketing and working in the scuba diving industry. There will be a number of pool sessions in which you will take part in graded presentations when you are put in the scenario of an instructor teaching a skill to a number of students. You will also give short academic presentations on set questions to your PADI Course Director. Finally, there are a couple of days in the ocean when you focus on being graded on teaching the open water segments of diver courses.

There is also the option to complete the Emergency First Response First Aid and CPR Instructor program during the course which is necessary to be able to teach the Rescue course when you are a certified instructor. Following on from the course we can look at getting you some PADI Specialty Instructor ratings to move you up the PADI Instructional ladder.

The CD

PADI Course Director Mark Slingo

From watching James Bond movies and the classic Flipper episodes as a kid, Mark was obsessed with the underwater world. Originally from Great Britain after years of snorkelling and free diving on holiday, he finally earned his Open Water Diver scuba certification on the Great Barrier Reef in Australia, travelling around the world on his GAP year.

Mark continued to dive on holidays and after completing a bachelors degree at Newcastle University, Mark travelled to Thailand to become a Divemaster. Enjoying himself so much working on dive boats, he elected to stay and become a diving instructor.

Just a few weeks after Mark became an instructor, tragedy struck. A fall from a third floor left Mark paralysed from the waist down. He was hospitalised for four months in the spinal unit in the UK. But he considers that the thought of being able to scuba dive kept him going. And true enough just three weeks following Mark's discharge from the spinal unit, he was invited back to teach in his former job in Thailand by his mentors top PADI Course Directors, the late Stephen Blumenthal and Russell Martin.

Delighted that he could still teach as a dive instructor, and wanting to pass on that gift to other divers, Mark specialised in working with divers with disabilities. At the same time he worked as part of a busy dive centre team, earning higher instructor certifications until in March 2008 he attained the highest PADI Instructor rating possible for anyone. PADI Course Director. He is at the time of writing the first and only wheelchair user to ever attain this rating.

After becoming a PADI Course Director Mark worked in Egypt, and Phuket & Bangkok, Thailand before setting in Kenya teaching diving courses. The culmination of Mark's experience and hard work were rewarded when Mark finally opened his own dive centre Ocean Tribe in 2015. He strives to maintain the highest possible standards of diving instruction and dive trips at Ocean Tribe and introducing people to the wonders of Kenya's superb diving.

"Diving is the greatest freedom, so lets get out there offering the wonders to as many people as possible"

In addition to his work for Ocean Tribe, Mark is also the Director of Training for Disabled Divers International, the world's leading disabled diver training organisation. He travels around the world teaching Divemasters and Instructors to work with disabled divers and instructor trainers how to teach the instructor courses for pros who wish to work with handicapped people.

In 2017 Mark received the prestigious Platinum Pro 5000 award. This is an award that only a select few of the most elite and prominent divers (including Jacques Cousteau) in the WORLD have been privileged enough to attain.

Mark is a superb choice to come to to complete your dive professional training or simple do a dive course with. He loves just going for a dive too so often you will find he's the one fighting to the front of the queue to lead divers.

Away From Diving

Mark is a massive sports fan following his various rugby, football and cricket teams as well as being a fanatical traveller and photographer when he gets the chance. Kenya gives him more than his fair share of opportunities to pursue all the interests without even having to leave the country, which is another reason (aside from the great diving) why he chose to be here.

IDC ONLINE

Would you prefer to complete some of the knowledge parts of the PADI IDC online prior to arrival in Kenya? For those of you who are pushed for time or would like to enhance your IDC experience by preparing you for the in-water presentations, Our PADI IDC online training allows you to complete the PADI eLearning, classroom workshops, and some knowledge development presentations through online face-to-face interactions with PADI Course Directors. This allows you to be much more flexible with your IDC preparation training and devote more of the IDC to the practical part.

THE PADI IDC ONLINE LEARNING WORK THAT WOULD BE COMPLETED WOULD BE:

PADI IDC eLearning (to be completed in your own time)- This is the IDC eLearning assigned by PADI which consists of presentations and exercises to get you familiar with the PADI instructor development process. This should be completed before the live presentations from the PADI Course Director and IDC Staff Instructors.

EFR Instructor Course eLearning (to be completed in your own time)- The theory for the EFR Instructor course should be completed before the practical teaching presentations and skills demonstrations, which are done on the main practical IDC section of the program.

PADI ONLINE WORKSHOPS WITH PADI COURSE DIRECTOR

PADI IDC Orientation – Includes schedule for the week and what to expect from your PADI IDC both online and on the practical in-water presentations in Kenya.

IDC Systems Workshop-This workshop is designed to familiarise you with PADI System components and their uses. You will learn to use the PADI Instructor Manual and the PADI Guide to Teaching and other reference materials such as slates and student manuals, as well as the difference between standards and recommendations.

You will explore how to find what you need to know, do, or reference while conducting PADI programs using your PADI materials

IDC Learning and Teaching Workshop– On this workshop you will develop an understanding on the learning and instructional theories and how they are applied to scuba diver training within the PADI system. This includes:

- Why we use performance-based training and how we define the concept of “mastery learning”.
- Handling real-life situations and staying within PADI standards and the importance of using good judgement.

DSD Workshop -On this workshop we will work on the practicalities of conducting the PADI Discover Scuba Diving experience program. The workshop will include:

- Reading through standards of the PADI Discover Scuba Diving in the PADI Instructor Manual.
- Reviewing and practicing how to conduct a DSD briefing
- Discussing confined and open water sessions and supervision styles and rations.
- Learning how to register Discover Scuba Diving participants with eLearning using the PADI online processing centre (OLPC)

Knowledge Development Presentations Workshop– This workshop works on training in the classroom. The workshop will include:

- How to prepare and then present teaching presentations using the PADI system and what media support and other training aids can be used.
- Looking at the difference between prescriptive teaching and micro teaching.
- Preparing your first Knowledge Development Presentation
- Presenting your first Knowledge Development Presentation of the PADI IDC

Open Water Set-up and Scheduling Workshop-This workshop looks at preparing you to set up an schedule your own PADI Open Water Diver course. The workshop will include:

- Open Water Course Standard – Read through standards and scheduling options in the PADI Instructor Manual.
- Using Google Jamboard link emailed to you, you will work on virtual white boards to schedule PADI Open Water courses in different areas under different scenarios according to PADI Standards.

Knowledge Development Presentation #2 (Con-Ed Course) – You present your second knowledge development presentation of the PADI IDC.

Confined Water Training Workshop– During this workshop, you’ll be getting creative and using good judgement to choosing and working on confined water training sites. This will include:

- You will decide on student and instructor positioning, confined site setup and skill sequencing for specific confined water dives on a number of different sites. You will use the virtual whiteboards on Google Jamboard to show how you would conduct the training.

Confined Water Teaching Presentations – On this workshop we will work together to prepare you for the confined water presentations that you will give on the PADI IDC and not the PADI IE. This will include:

- A review of the PADI evaluation slate that the staff will be using to assess your presentations.
- Using your teaching slates and lesson planning slate to prepare your first confined water presentation.
- Doing a dry run of the first confined water skill including the briefing and debriefing of the skill in preparation for when you give these in the pool.
- Confined water skill briefing – You present

Present Knowledge Development Presentation #3 (No PLG) – You present your third knowledge development presentation of the PADI IDC.

Advanced Open Water Course – This workshop will prepare you for teaching the PADI Advanced Open Water Diver course and will include:

- Read through PADI Advanced Open Water Diver course standards in the PADI Instructor Manual.

Con-Ed Workshop – On this workshop we will be examining working with the PADI continuing education system. This will include:

- Learning how to link courses according to PADI standards.
- Scheduling your own PADI Advanced Open Water Diver course using interactive whiteboard. This will also include how to link corresponding PADI Specialty Diver courses to your PADI Advanced Open Water Diver course.

Open Water Training/Teaching Workshop – During this workshop, you'll be getting creative and using good judgement to choose and arrange training sites for open water dives on PADI courses. The workshop will include:

- Difference between confined and open water supervision.
- How to sequence the skills within PADI Open Water Diver course dives and PADI Adventure dives in different locations.
- The difference between an open water presentation and a confined water presentation on the PADI IDC
- Preparing IDC Open Water presentations.
- Present Open Water presentation briefing (2 skills) – You present.

Rescue Diver Course – This workshop will prepare you for teaching the PADI Rescue Diver course and will include:

- Read through the PADI Rescue Diver course standards in the PADI Instructor Manual.
- Go through all Rescue exercises and scenarios

Risk Management and Licensing Workshop – This workshop covers the law and scuba diving. It will include:

- Local regulations and insurance requirements
- Required documentation and paperwork for PADI courses.
- Dive incident data from the Divers Alert Network (DAN)
- “How do you handle this?” workshop where you review example forms and paperwork.

Present Knowledge Development Presentation #4 (O2 Spec) – You present your fourth knowledge development presentation of the PADI IDC.

PADI Divemaster Course – This workshop will prepare you for teaching the PADI Divemaster course and will include:

- Read through PADI Divemaster and PADI Junior Divemaster course standards in PADI Instructor Manual.

Sales Techniques and the Business of Diving Workshop – This workshop will prepare you for the sales side of being a PADI Instructor and will include:

- How to market PADI courses
- Licencing regulations
- Sales techniques to help grow your business.

Dive Theory Workshop – Knowing your dive theory is an important part of being a PADI Instructor so you are in the position to answer “why”. This workshop will include:

- Why dive professionals need to be proficient in dive theory.
- Remedial practice on dive theory you need to go over.
- Team teaching workshops acting as both instructor and student.

Close – On this presentation your PADI Course Director will explain what comes next when you arrive in Kenya including:

- Logistics
- In-water schedule of your PADI IDC and EFRI programs
- The PADI IE procedures.

You would then complete the PADI skills circuit, swims, confined and open water presentation practice, and evaluation and knowledge development presentations on-site in Kenya, prior to entering the PADI IE (Instructor Examination) immediately following the IDC.
